The Housing Forum membership benefits

Join the only cross-sector membership network that brings together organisations across the housing and construction sector, from housing providers, housebuilders and contractors, suppliers and manufacturers, specialist consultants and councils.

housingforum.org.uk

Why your organisation will benefit from joining

We will connect you with other organisations from across the housing supply chain via access to our unique meetings and events, providing the opportunity to create valuable partnerships, develop innovative project solutions and enhance your industry credibility.

Benefits of membership

Support the development of your staff through access to regular events each month, available for all staff within member organisations

Together with members, we co-produce stimulating events that tackle the challenges faced by the sector and advance solutions to deliver both the step change in the numbers and quality of UK homes. Our regular event series cover the most pressing issues in the housing sector:

- Decarbonisation and sustainability
- Existing housing stock
- Development
- Issues facing local councils in building and managing housing
- Emerging new issues and policy developments

These are brought to you in a variety of formats, including:

- All-day summits with discussions and site tours
- Webinars and online conferences
- CEO roundtables
- The Housing Forum's annual National Conference

Enroll your high potential staff on The Housing Forum's Futures Network Programme

The Housing Forum's Futures Network was set up for future leaders from member organisations. Each year, a 20-strong cohort benefits from personal learning and development, mentoring, research projects, events participation and public speaking opportunities.

Get involved in knowledge sharing

Participate in influential working groups to produce high quality, relevant reports. These provide an opportunity for experts from all areas of the supply chain to come together to highlight good practice and encourage innovative and collaborative solutions.

Have your say in research projects and influencing policy

Share your insights and be part of our work to influence policy and practice in the way projects are procured and delivered. This can involve helping steer research projects or events which bring the Government and the housing sector together. Our publications draw on the expertise of our members to research and spotlight the issues of today.

Recent publications include:

- The Cost of Building a House
- A Roadmap to 1.5 million Homes
- Streamlining Planning to Build More Homes
- Reforming the Right to Buy
- Linking Social Rents to Energy Efficiency

Raise your profile via sponsorship opportunities and media exposure

Our high quality events attract decision makers from across the housing and construction sector. Take advantage of the opportunity to promote your brand to the whole construction supply chain by supporting a Housing Forum event or publication. Members of The Housing Forum access significant discounts on our sponsorship rates.

What our members say

“HTA have been pleased to be members of The Housing Forum since its inception. Even today, after nearly three decades, it stands alone as a membership organisation which is truly cross-sector. At HTA, collaboration is at the heart of our ethos, and we find our membership to The Housing Forum to be a great way to engage with the housing sector”.

HTA Design

“Being part of The Housing Forum gives us direct access to insights from a diverse range of industry experts, as well as the forum's own policy team. We not only get the chance to listen to various perspectives but also actively engage in discussions that help us address challenges affecting our organisation. These can include shifts in planning policies and changes in governmental regulations.”
